

HALF A MILLION HOMELESS; PROPERTY LOSS $100,000,000

Revised Lists of Dead Estimate the Total Number Killed at 3,262; but Few Bodies Have F

CHICAGO, March 26. Three thousand dead in the deluge that swept the northern half of the Ohio valley yesterday and today. Probably half a million people were made homeless by the floods in Indiana and Ohio, and property damage in both states will be at least $100,000,000. These figures were compiled late today from reports received here from various points in the stricken district.

Further reports may increase the number of dead, and it is unlikely that an increase in financial loss will be expected.

An additional horror was reported this evening from Dayton of fire there which seemed widespread, and probably uncontrollable. In view of the paralysis of the water plant, probably brought a horrible death to many who sought to escape by climbing to upper floors of buildings.

Reports unconfirmed said that 14 persons had lost their lives in Fremont and 50 at Tiffin, O. It was rumored in Indianapolis early today that 200 persons were drowned in West Indianapolis, but this number was later reduced to 14, though it was estimated early this evening that more than that had died. South of Indianapolis the flood is said to have caused death in a number of small towns and villages.

Fire at Dayton added to the financial loss caused by the flood. Early estimates, placing the damage in Ohio and Indiana at $50,000,000, were revised to show tonight double that amount.

Railroad officials were authority for the statement that lines converging in Indianapolis would have to stand a loss of $25,000,000 in that city and vicinity alone.

Railroads were chief sufferers from property damage. It was said tonight by engineers and construction bosses preparing repair trains for the flood districts that strips of railroads more

Fire and Explosion Add to Dayton's Night Horror

DAYTON, O., March 26. Flames that destroyed eight buildings in Dayton's submerged business section tonight cast a red, weird glow over the flood-stricken city that added to the four of thousands of refugees and marooned persons and led to apprehension that there may have been many of the water's prisoners in burned buildings.

Soon afterward, notice was posted in the headquarters of the emergency committee announcing that city was under martial law, and several companies of soldiers arrived from neighboring Ohio cities. The soldiers were employed to patrol edges of the burned district and prevent further looting of homes freed from the flood's grasp. Up to a late hour tonight there had been no material disorder.

Rescue squads worked frantically today to throw back the veil that hides the true story of the Dayton disaster—the number of dead. Late tonight the arrival of motor boats gave hope that by tomorrow northern section of the city, cut off by the Big Miami's impassable barrier, may be penetrated and then may be learned the fate of hundreds imprisoned by the torrent that poured down from the broken reservoir.

It was reported late tonight that a number of dead had been found in houses at Fifth and Eagle streets but when rescuers worked their way into the partially submerged dwellings they found a number of the flood's prisoners weak from fright and hunger.

Already overburdened victims of the water's wrath were compelled to suffer again today in a cold, smarting rain.

Fire that appeared to threaten the business section tonight was confined to the block bounded by Second and Third streets and Jefferson and St. Clair street. In the block are the Fourth National bank, Lattiman Drug company, Evans Wholesale Drug company and several commission houses.

It was impossible to get within two miles of the fire, and from that distance, it appeared that explosions, probably of drugs, made the fire seem of larger proportions than it was.

It was impossible to ascertain, even approximately, the number of persons who might have been marooned in this section and who died after being trapped by flood and fire.

Nevertheless, rescue work went steadily on, and about 3,000 persons were housed in places of refuge to night—the majority of them in buildings of the National Cash Register company. At least 45,000 persons are imprisoned in homes and in business buildings. It is feared their two days' imprisonment, with accompanying hunger and fright, have caused tremendous suffering.

The flood came with such suddenness that food supplies in homes were whisked away by the torrent in almost the flash of an eye. Skiffs skirted the edge of the flooded district, attempting to furnish food to those whom it was impossible to rescue, but the fierce current retarded the work.

Operators at opposite ends of the wires reported that thousands of telegrams were piled up at relay offices. These were from persons anxious over the fate of Dayton residents.

Two carsmen who braved the current swirled through the business section today reported the water at the Algonquin hotel, at the southwest corner of Third and Ludlow streets, was 16 feet deep. From windows in the hotels and business buildings hundreds of the marooned looked anxiously for rescue and food.

The water was so high that many persons must have perished in the water's sudden rush through the street.

Carsmen who worked in the outskirts of the business section tonight reported that 250 persons are marooned in the Arcade building, and 200 imprisoned in the I. M. C. A. building, were begging for water.

A shortage of provisions was threatened this afternoon when it was reported many relief trains, bound to Dayton from neighboring cities, had been stopped by high water. Every grocery in the city had been "sold out" before noon.

THOUSANDS FLEE COLUMBUS ON RUMOR THAT GREAT DAM HAD BROKEN LOOSE

COLUMBUS, O., March 26.—With no change in the number of reported dead in this city, estimates placing the probable dead at 100 to 150, Columbus was still being wreathed and torn tonight by the flood waters of the Scioto and Olentangy rivers.

The scene of devastation of the west side was partially made visible today to residents of other sections of the city for the first time in two days. Later the isolation of the western section again became real, when the last remaining bridge gave way before the torrents.

Besides the actual tragedies that have been enacted in connection with the flood here, the most exciting incident occurred late today at the dam, northwest of the city, where a great flood, having sent its great flood, to the scene that followed was one of wild panic in all parts of the city. Patrolmen, soldiers and citizens in automobiles, tooting horns, ringing gongs and calling through megaphones warned everyone to seek safety in the highest parts of the east side, sent thousands in flight, while many, stunned by the supposed impending disaster, collapsed from fear or gave way to hysteria.

It was more than an hour before the report was officially denied. Responsibility for its origin has not been fixed. Police officials assert that the report was made to them by persons connected with the military end of the patrol service.

Officials said tonight that the storage dam was holding fast against the millions of gallons of water that is being poured against it and will continue to do so.

COLUMBUS, O., March 26.—Governor Cox received advice shortly before midnight that the Lewistown dam was weakening and might go out at any time. The governor arranged to send a special train from Bellefontaine early tomorrow with men and material to strengthen the dam.

COURT DECISION ON SENATE BILL NO. 19

Two-Thirds Vote Not Needed to Change Boundary Line of District

DENVER, March 25.—The supreme court today answered the senate's questions as to the legal status of the bill to move Teller county from the Fourth judicial district and attach it to the Eleventh district. These questions were raised by Senator Cornforth a few days ago in his speech opposing the bill. The questions were:

1. Does it require a two-thirds vote of the senate and the house of representatives to change the boundary lines of judicial districts under section 13, article 6 of the constitution?

2. Does the removal of one county from one judicial district of the state

ADRIANOPLE FALLS BEFORE BULGARIANS' RUMBARDMENT

Defender Fires Buildings Before Surrender; Loss of Life Heavy; Tchatalja Also Taken by Balkan Allies

LONDON, March 26.—Adrianople has fallen after one of the most stubborn defenses in the history of warfare, and Tchatalja, according to a telegram received by the Bulgarian legation at London tonight, has suffered a like fate. The information regarding Tchatalja may refer to the town of that name and not the fortifications, although it is possible the Bulgarians carried all before them.

Simkri Pasha, the defender of Adrianople, handed his sword this afternoon to General Savoff, the Bulgarian leader, not, however, before carrying out his threat to destroy the town rather than let it fall into the hands of the Bulgarians.

From all accounts the arsenal, stores and much of the town are in flames. It was reported also that Shukri Pasha had taken his own life, but this proved untrue as after deciding defense was no longer possible, he sent word to General Savoff that he was burning the city.

General Ivanoff, who commanded the forces around Adrianople, will enter tomorrow, while King Ferdinand will follow soon thereafter.

Battle Began Sunday. The battle, which preceded the surrender, started Sunday night with a three hours' bombardment. Later the besieging troops in the east advanced under the glare of searchlights to attack the advance works at Maslak. After a fierce defense lasting throughout Monday the Turks retired from the forward forts.

After moving forward toward the chief fortress the Bulgarians retired. Although great progress had been made in the east, in other sections enormous losses had resulted to the Bulgarians with small gains. The attack was renewed and Tuesday and Wednesday the important inner forts were taken after hard fighting.

According to a dispatch received at Belgrade from Mustapha Pasha, the sacrifices were severe. The Serbian Thirteenth and the Bulgarian Eighteenth regiments were blown up by mines. The reserve hospitals have prepared to receive thousands of wounded.

The people of the town are said to be panic-stricken and even Europe, from the history of previous wars, fears that the occupation today may be accompanied by indiscriminate slaughter.

The capture of Adrianople has caused rejoicing at all Slav capitals.

GRAND JURY WILL BE CALLED, TO CONVENE ABOUT MIDDLE OF APRIL

Action by District Court Is Predicted on Excellent Authority, Although Judge W. S. Morris Refuses to Talk

Although he has made no statement of his intention in the matter, it is understood on good authority that Judge W. S. Morris of the district court has virtually decided to issue a call within a few days for a grand jury to convene about the middle of April to investigate the exercise of police power in El Paso county and vice conditions generally.

The call for the grand jury will be the outgrowth of revelations in the Pettier trial, which showed corruption in the police department, and the investigation of dance hall conditions, which disclosed the existence of immorality by the acquiescence, if not the open consent of the police. It is a significant fact that policemen involved in the adulterations resulting from the disclosures have "retired."

Disaffection has long existed in this city against the police department, particularly in its tolerance of vice conditions. There is dissatisfaction, equally strong, against the tolerance of vice in Colorado City.

The proposed grand jury is to investigate conditions in Colorado City as well as a Colorado Springs and the two cities, in addition to those of the sheriff's office and the district attorney's office, would come under its scope.

The call for the grand jury was urged by a resolution passed last Tuesday by directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and also has been urged for several days by The Gazette.

A grand jury has even greater power than a court, and if the jury does, even the judge of the court may be summoned as a witness. The grand jury has absolute authority to go into every phase of an investigation with power that is almost unlimited.

Corruption in Colorado City?

P. J. Hamble, mayor of Colorado City and candidate for reelection, yesterday verified the report in The Gazette that he has in his possession and has made public the statements of affidavits made to him by two colored women charging Chief of Police Tamm of Colorado City with taking money from them for protection, if not immunity from arrest.

FLOODS STILL RAGING IN MANY PARTS OF INDIANA

Peru Most Completely Demoralized City, Though Other Towns Experience Loss of Life and Property Damage

INDIANAPOLIS, March 26.—Night fell upon flood-swept Indiana but with little comfort in sight for its many thousands of flood sufferers. The most conservative reports from over the state estimate the loss of life at not fewer than 125 drowned, while persistent statements from various points indicate that more than that number may have perished in the high waters. It was impossible to even make a guess as to the property damage. The small army of relief workers in most of the cities are without the aid of public services.

Advices from Peru, sent by telephone through South Bend late today, say that 12 bodies were recovered from a single house there and insist that the largest death figures for that city are not exaggerated.

The Peru death list is placed at from 50 to 300 still. At least 30 have perished at West Indianapolis, where the flood struck foreign quarters and poorer homes with overwhelming suddenness last night.

Six deaths were reported from Fort Wayne, three from Newcasie, two from Lafayette, one from Rushville, one from Muncie and five scattering, these being in addition to definite reports of deaths in several places yesterday.

Forty Dead in Brookville. Communication established with Coatesville, from where Governor Calister, Tuesday, received frantic appeals for aid, brought definite information that at least 40 persons perished in Brookville, Franklin county, during Monday night in the flood caused by the conflux of the swollen branches of the White Water river. Less reliable dispatches from the same region declare that the smaller towns of Melmore, Cedar Grove and Trenton were swept away completely.

There are three distinct flood districts, each but a few miles wide, yet

Preferential Voting

The adoption of the Charter amendment for the preferential system of voting would accomplish two important reforms:

First, it would do away with the second election, with its incidental expense and annoyance.

Second, it would secure the election of each member of the Council to a designated position. That is, the people would vote for the candidate to fill a specific office, and not merely as a member of the Council.

GOVERNMENT RUSHES AID TO SUFFERERS

One Million Rations on Way to Feed Destitute in Flood Districts

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The principal function of the government of the United States today was to extend relief to the thousands of homeless survivors of the Ohio and Indiana floods. In quick succession every agency of the government, from the president and secretary of war to every bureau chief in whose department relief expeditions could be organized, moved swiftly.

All troops of the department of the east were ordered to hold themselves in readiness for duty in the flood districts. One million rations, sufficient to feed 200,000 persons for five days, at least, are being purchased by the war department and hurried to the Ohio and Indiana towns.

Tents to shelter at least 50,000 persons, thousands of blankets, coats, hospital and field supplies, are being loaded in cars at nearby army posts.

PLATT BELIEVED SAFE

Word has been received here from W. A. Platt of Denver, formerly editor of The Gazette, stating that he is almost certain that his son, James Platt, a Colorado college graduate in 1906, is safe in Mexico, where he is mining. Mr. Platt fears that he has heard from G. F. Williams of Beaumont, one of the owners of the mine, south-west of Toluca, where his son is employed, to the effect that no news of trouble has been received from his mine, which is in the center of the Zapatista district. No word has been received from Platt since February 20.

SANTA FE ORDINANCE PASSED BY COUNCIL

The ordinance to compel the Santa Fe railroad to build an underpassing at East Cuthbert street was passed yesterday by the city council. After being initiated by the taxpayers, the ordinance was submitted to the council with the request that the council either pass it or submit it to the voters at the April 15 election. The council took action on the ordinance, in the belief that modification in its provisions, if necessary, might be more easily made.

News of Local Courts

John Reagan was fined $6 in police court yesterday for intoxication, and in default of payment was committed to jail. Ed Carlson paid a fine of $2 and costs for intoxication.

A verdict in favor of the defendant in the suit of the Gilles Mercantile company, against D. F. McGarry, was returned yesterday by a jury in the county court. The company brought suit for $21.40, claimed due on a horse.

J. N. Murray, yesterday in the district court, was appointed receiver for the Progressive Stove and Furnace company of Colorado City for a period of 60 days, to succeed Frank A. Drew, who withdrew from the appointment. The appointment was made on petition of the First National bank of Colorado City.

John Dennis, who was slightly wounded in the right arm in the shooting affray at Papeton last Sunday night, was arrested yesterday on a warrant sworn out in Justice Gowdy's court by Charles Bedner. Bedner charges Dennis with assault with intent to kill.

James Christy was arrested yesterday by Constable Dolman, on a charge of creating a disturbance at the St. James hotel. He is accused of becoming intoxicated and abusive. Justice Gowdy sent Christy to the county jail to take the liquor cure.

On grounds of cruelty, Lyda E. Frey was granted a divorce from Harry Frey, in the county court yesterday. She was given the custody of their adopted daughter, 8 years old, and Frey was ordered to pay $15 a month for the support of the child. Mrs. Frey accused her husband of abusing her from their home March 21, last, forbidding her to return, and threatening to kill her if she did return. She feared that he would carry out his threat. She says that Frey is a machinist capable of earning $75 a month. The couple were married in Hastings, Neb., June 15, 1898.

MRS. LILLIAN KERR HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Mrs. Lillian H. Kerr of this city had a narrow escape from death or serious injury in the wreck on the Colorado & Southern railroad, near Electra, Tex., last Friday, the coach in which she was riding being the only one that did not plunge down the embankment. Mrs. Kerr returned yesterday from an extended visit with her mother, Mrs. L. W. Hart, and the family of Judge A. H. Carrigan, at Wichita Falls.

The wreck was caused by spreading rails. Several were injured, but no deaths were reported.

SOCIETY

Annual Charity Ball at Antlers Feature of the Spring Season

The annual charity ball, one of the most representative of the gatherings of Colorado Springs people during the whole year, passed into history last night, and the Day nursery, the beneficiary of the dancers and their friends, is the richer for their interest.

The ball room of the Antlers hotel was very attractive, with its strings of Japanese lanterns hung on long ropes of ground pine, and the rose-shaded electric lights. The smilex ordered from the south for the decorative scheme was stopped somewhere in the east by the floods, and the plan was materially changed, but the effect was very good. Banks of palms and ferns hid the orchestra, without at all spoiling the splendid music. The decorations were donated by the Pikes Peak Floral company.

The committee, Mr. Lewis Gibbs, carpenter chairman, with Mr. Henry Cobb, Nickerson, Mr. Eric A. Swenson, Mr. Francis Drexel Smith, Mr. Ted Robinson, Mr. Bowman Wheeler, Mr. Edward A. Rosenfeld and Mr. Havemeyer Butt, had made careful plans for the program of the evening, and to them is due much of the success of the ball.

The supper served by the Antlers management was a particularly good one, and there were many pleasant supper parties made up. The arrangements for the whole affair were so carefully made by the hotel that the only damper upon the spirits of the company lay in the fact that Mr. W. S. Dunning lay so seriously ill upstairs, not able to join in the festivities he had helped to plan.

Among those present were: Mrs. Chester, Alan Arthur, black chiffon with shadow lace bodice, let. Mrs. James T. Anderson, embroidered chiffon and lace. Miss Margaret Anderson, blue satin and ecru lace, violets. Miss Eleanor Anderson, white net over pink satin. Miss Jessie Aiken, tan and blue silk. Miss Anderson, sapphire blue velvet, silver lace and ermine. Miss Burns, gray crepe de chine, shadow lace. Mrs. Meredith Bailey, pink embroidered crepe. Miss Kate Burns, blue and white striped chiffon, cloth, blue chiffon. Miss Cornelia Patterson Boggs, Newark, green chiffon. Mrs. Ballard, pale yellow chiffon. Mrs. Clough, purple satin. Miss Marie Clough, ecru net, apple blossoms.

The society editor requests that all news intended for this column should reach her before 6 o'clock on the evening before it is to appear. It can be given either personally or by telephone, Main 215, but it is necessary that it should reach her before that time.

Gymnasium Classes at Institute Yesterday Afternoon

Yesterday afternoon the members of the physical culture department at the Colorado Institute for the Deaf and Blind, which have been so successful this year under the direction of Miss Hatty-May Bennett, gave their closing exhibition for the year, and the success of the afternoon showed how valuable the training is.

The training of these deficient children has its own difficulties. It is a hard task to teach a totally deaf and dumb child the meaning of rhythm, and it is only by the hardest kind of work that Miss Bennett was able to present classes that worked together in such complete harmony. But after the children have been taught to work with the music, they know for the first time how to walk without shuffling the feet, so the work has a very tangible reward.

There are seven classes in the girls' department of the institute, and each class had some special work to show the visitors, and from the kindergarten deaf and blind classes to the advanced ones, the numbers on the program went off without a hitch.

The little kindergartners were especially pleasing in their folk dancing, in both the deaf and blind classes, and the small blind girls went through their military maneuvers like young West Pointers. They wore Zouave caps and carried swords. Perhaps the crowning event of the program, from the standpoint of beauty, was the fancy dancing by the older deaf girls. They gave the Irish jig and a military schottische in perfect time to the music, and with graceful effect. One of the most difficult numbers on the program was the apparatus work, the leaping on the horses, the parallel bar work, etc., and the long applause of those who were present showed that they appreciated the fact. The advanced deaf and blind classes also gave some splendid Indian club swinging.

The program lasted for more than an hour, and when Miss Bennett asked if it was too long, the audience protested against any shortening, and their attention was keen all the time. The room was well filled with spectators, all of them interested in the revelation of what the deaf and blind children can be taught to do, by someone who loves them and loves her work.

And that the children love their instructor was proven when one of the little girls gave Miss Bennett a beautiful bunch of carnations, grown at the greenhouses of the institute.

Sturges-Suter.

One of the most interesting weddings of the winter, and the most elaborate of the Easter season, was that of Miss Margaret Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Sturges, to Mr. John Wallace Suter, Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. John Wallace Suter of Winchester, Mass., which was solemnized in St. Stephens church yesterday afternoon at 4 p.m.

There was snow on the ground, and snow is not usually associated with an Easter wedding, but the sunshine was brilliant, and the day was beautiful in spite of the snow.

The decorations at the church were confined to the Easter lilies in the chancel, but they were appropriate and beautiful. The organist of the church, Mr. Alexander Pirie, played a program of selected music as the large number of invited guests assembled, drifting into the strains of "Lohengrin" as the bridal party came into the church.

The ushers were Mr. Norman Rodney Sturges, brother of the bride, Mr. Bowman Wheeler and Mr. William Jackson of this city, and Mr. James Waring of Denver. The bridesmaids, Miss Edith Hall of Colorado Springs, Miss Lily Gardner of Hugo, Colo., Miss Dorothy Jessop of New Haven, Conn., and Miss Cornelia Patterson Boggs of Newark, N. J., preceded the bride and her maid of honor down the aisle. The bridesmaids wore gowns of blue crepe de chine, the skirts draped over ruffles of tucked net. They wore tulle veils, fastened to the collars with bunches of daisies. They carried big bunches of Shasta daisies.

The regular meeting of the North End Y. C. T. U. will be held Saturday, March 28, at the home of Mrs. Buchanan, 1332 North Cascade avenue, and a full attendance is desired. Mrs. Harriet Carper will read an excellent paper on "Race Culture."

Methodist Women This Afternoon. Section 4 of the Ladies Aid society of the First Methodist church will meet this afternoon at 2:30, at the home of Mrs. D. Howard, 928 North Coronado street. The hostesses will be Mrs. Howard, Mrs. Lendrum and Mrs. Blockford.

Dorcas Society Today. The Dorcas society of the Swedish Lutheran church will meet this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blockford.

How to Make Better Cough Syrup than You Can Buy

A Family Supply, Saving $2 and Fully Guaranteed.

A full pint of cough syrup—as much as you could buy for $2.00—can easily be made at home. You will find nothing that takes hold of an obstinate cough more quickly, usually ending it inside of 24 hours. Excellent, too, for croup, whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles. Mix one pint of granulated sugar with 1/2 pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, then add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This is just laxative enough to help cure a cough. Also stimulates the appetite, which is usually upset by a cough. The taste is pleasant. The effect of pine and sugar syrup on the inflamed membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe is now used by thousands of housewives throughout the United States and Canada. The plan has been imitated, but the old successful formula has never been equalled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

and pearl pendants, gifts from the bride. The maid of honor, Miss Julie Sturges, sister of the bride, walked alone. She wore a gown of a pale blue, with a tulle veil, and she carried pink tea roses.

The bride, on the arm of her father, who was to give her away, made a beautiful picture as she went down the aisle. Her gown was of ivory white satin, made with a long court train. A feature of the costume was the skirt of rare rose point lace, an heirloom in the family, which was draped over the left shoulder and down the front of the bodice. The skirt was slashed to show a flounce of the same beautiful lace. The only jewel worn was a diamond and pearl pendant.

The bridegroom, with his best man, his brother, Mr. Philip Suter, met the bride at the foot of the chancel, with the Rev. John Wallace Suter, who performed the ceremony, and the Rev. Arthur N. Taft of St. Stephens church, who assisted him, and at the conclusion of the reading of the service the organ began the Mendelssohn march, as the party went back down the aisle.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturges gave a reception to the relatives and intimate friends after the ceremony, the house being beautifully decorated with lilies and roses. Assisting in receiving were Mrs. C. P. Dodge, Mrs. Dunbar Carpenter, Miss Gladys McConnell and Miss Agnes Fowler of New York city. Today or tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Suter will leave for the east, where they will make their home in the future, and the best wishes of their friends will go with them.

Asks That Colo. Springs Be Given the Contract

Asking that the board of education award the contracts for the construction of the new high school buildings to a Colorado Springs firm, the following letter has been sent to the directors by the El Paso County Retail Grocers and Butchers association: The Board of Education, School District No. 11, Colorado Springs, Colo. Gentlemen: It is the sense of the El Paso County Retail Grocers & Butchers association, that the board of education of school district No. 11, be requested, if possible, and can consistently do so, award the contract for the high school buildings to a Colorado Springs firm or firms in preference to any outside firm or firms, even though the Colorado Springs firm or firms bid or bids are a fraction higher than the outside firm or firms. A large amount of money will be involved in the erection of these buildings, and we feel that every dollar possible of that amount should be kept in circulation in Colorado Springs, and that all materials so far as possible should be purchased in Colorado Springs, and that home labor should be employed.

Many of the merchants of Colorado Springs have been, and are now carrying many of these laborers on their books in amounts ranging from $25 to $2.50, and why? Because they have had a hard time this winter, work has been scarce, and money very close, and now if these contracts are awarded to outside firms, what will the consequences be? That many of our home laborers will not get work on them, they will have to stand aside and see laborers imported to do the work that is rightfully theirs.

We feel that these contracts, if awarded to Colorado Springs firms, that the actions of the board of education, would meet with the hearty approval of the local merchants and taxpayers of the district, therefore having the interest of the merchants, laborers, and taxpayers at heart, we again ask that these contracts be awarded to Colorado Springs men.

Yours very truly, THE EL PASO COUNTY RETAIL GROCERS & BUTCHERS ASSOCIATION

VOTE AGAINST IT

IT IS an evident fact that a very large majority of the people of Colorado Springs regard the present liquor law as the best measure of its kind we have ever had. Since it was adopted two years ago the sale of liquor has been better regulated than ever before.

This law was drafted by a committee which spent several weeks at the task, carefully investigating all conditions bearing on the subject and utilizing the information gained by past experience. The result was a measure which in the opinion of the most representative element in the community should be continued in force just as it is, without revision or amendment.

Now it is proposed to weaken this law by an amendment the effect of which would be to let down the bars. This measure, which is to be voted on next Tuesday, will, if adopted, open up a train of evils to which the present law is opposed, both in letter and in spirit, and which will not long be tolerated by the people. It makes possible the operation of what in effect will be private dining rooms for the serving of liquor, and it permits the proprietors to conduct them all night.

We do not believe that the people of Colorado Springs want liquor dispensed in this fashion. We do not believe that they care to have spring up in this community a lot of cheap wine rooms, masquerading as restaurants, unlicensed, uncontrolled, operating under the protection of law but in defiance of public decency.

If you are opposed to this sort of thing vote against the proposed amendment to the liquor ordinance.

AVERY AND THE LAND BILL

MAYOR AVERY has taken to himself the lion's share of credit for the passage by Congress of the bill whereby the City acquired control of a tract of land on Pikes Peak for the use of the water system. It is interesting to see to what extent his claim is justified.

The bill was prepared by City Attorney McKesson and Attorney Henry C. Hall. Mr. McKesson secured the revision of the bill to meet the approval of the Agricultural and Interior Departments. He presented it before the House and Senate Committees. He filed a brief in reply to the objections of Attorney R. L. Holland in behalf of the Empire Water Company, and also answered the protests of the City of Victor.

The Chamber of Commerce, both as an organization and through a number of its members, pushed the bill before Congress. E. W. Giddings, Irving Howbert, and others did special work for the measure, while C. C. Hamlin, Henry C. Hall and E. E. Brooks went to Washington and worked for the bill before the committees. Congressman Taylor aided them in the House and Senators Guggenheim and Thomas in the Senate.

And what was the Honorable Mayor doing all this time? He made two or three trips to Washington and remained weeks at a time at the City's expense. His labors consisted chiefly of telling whoever would listen that he was the greatest mayor now on earth. If he actually accomplished anything of importance in behalf of the land bill nobody has yet discovered it.

This is a part of the record on which Mr. Avery now says he is running for reelection. Does it justify keeping him in office for another four years?

DENVER'S JEALOUSY

DENVER, built on the plains far away from the mountains, and without scenic attractions of its own, is so hopelessly jealous of Colorado Springs that it hurts. The thought of all the good tourist money that comes to the City of Sunshine makes Denver fairly writhing with envy. There is scarcely an issue of a Denver paper but contains evidence of this grievous mental state in one form or another. The capital city has a half dozen or more hosting organizations of the commonplace hot-air variety—the kind that hold dinners at which the members tell each other how good they are and then forget to do any work.

At one such meeting the other day John Brisben Walker voiced the grief and greed of Denver over Colorado Springs' superior charms as a resort city. "It is the scenery of this state that brings the tourists," said Mr. Walker. "Colorado Springs is taking large numbers of people and large sums of money from Denver every year, and the reason is simple. Colorado Springs has an abundance of mountain scenery at its very front door, and it is the scenery that draws the people. Colorado Springs has been taking away from Denver every year from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 of tourist travel."

Isn't it awful! Now that Mr. Walker has reminded us of our guilt there is nothing to do but shut down our tourist attractions, draw the shades close on our west windows and forbid visitors to look at the mountains. Perhaps, too, we ought to send them all to Denver, where of course they couldn't see mountains, but they could at least contribute to Denver's satisfaction by reason of their absence from Colorado Springs.

Mr. Walker admits that Colorado Springs has secured this tourist patronage "by developing every one of her nearby peaks, parks and canyons." In other words, we give visitors what they want, we make it possible for them to see the Pikes Peak region to the best advantage. But although admitting that Colorado Springs deserves the patronage it receives, Mr. Walker is still jealous, for he has a little dinky resort of his own somewhere in the foothills west of Denver, a place called Mt. Morrison.

Denver will realize some day that it cannot seriously compete with Colorado Springs for the tourist patronage. As Mr. Walker says: "It is the scenery that draws the people, and Denver is many miles from the scenery." By getting on top of a high building it is possible for a Denverite to detect the outline of mountains on the western horizon, but they are too far away to be of any interest to the tourists even if they were accessible, which they are not. The visitor to Colorado Springs can get into the mountains by street car or automobile or carriage within thirty minutes, and when he gets there he finds something worth seeing. All the petty jealousy that Denver can voice through its newspapers and its pseudo-boasting organizations will not alter this fact.

THE EASTONVILLE LINE

THE report that the Colorado & Southern Railroad Company probably will reopen its line between this city and Eastonville is gratifying, especially to the business interests of Colorado Springs. The line traverses one of the best farming and dairying sections in this region, and its abandonment a year ago involved not only a considerable loss to local business interests but placed the people in the affected section at a serious disadvantage.

The country between Colorado Springs and Eastonville has developed considerably in recent years, and it is almost certain that the reopening of the railroad would promote its growth to such an extent that the increased traffic in dairy and farm products would make the line profitable.

A CASE IN POINT.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
 The disaster at Dayton, O., very forcibly calls attention to the necessity of the people of the United States taking hold of the conservation question in earnest. It is well that there is so much good literature available on this subject. This is certainly a subject demanding attention that intelligent, well directed action may be taken. The water that might be made very useful for power purposes becomes a flood, carrying death and destruction in its path. A useful servant thus unconsciously is turned into an intelligent control. When shall we learn to intelligently control it?

TRADE AT HOME.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
 The press seems to be giving a great deal of space against any citizen doing a mail order business. Since the parcel post system has gone into effect trade at home seems to be the advice to us all. By the Chamber of Commerce and all our leading business men. Yet they never stop to consider what encouragement is given by them to the man who earns his daily bread by the sweat of his brow. Looking at the advice given from a mechanical standpoint, I find many buildings in this city of terra-cotta, or with terra-cotta trimmings. Where does this come from—Chicago or St. Louis? Is this a mail order business? If not, what is it?
 I understand that the proposed High School building is to have terra-cotta trimmings. Why should a public building in this city, and especially a high school building, have trimmings which is a substitute for the good old durable stone? Is it better? It may be cheaper, and something like which a mechanic knows but is not supposed to know.
 Let us have the High School building built of Colorado Springs brick and Colorado Springs stone. Let us boost our own home products, stop paying tribute to Chicago, St. Louis, and other points; give the mechanics here their opportunity to trade at home, and you will find they will be in line with you for everything that will benefit this beautiful city of ours.
 Let us look at our college buildings, city hall, court house, post and final institute, General Faber's residence, Presbyterian and Methodist churches—all the work has been done here, and the mechanic's wages have been spent patronizing home merchants.

Now, members of the school board, Chamber of Commerce and Mr. Business, Man, and you, Mr. Taxpayer, should see that home products are used in all public buildings.

FROM OTHER PENS

THE MAN'S RESPONSIBILITY.

The newspapers of the country, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, show that the case investigation in Chicago is attracting nationwide attention. The effort on the part of certain witnesses has been on the whole, to make the case clear and to show working women to the fact that they receive low wages and on the other hand to prove that immoral conduct is due to financial depravity. But the commission has made public two letters just received which are wrong from the tragic utterance of real experience, the cry of the woman from what is left to her of a heart and a soul. These letters do not pat of cradles; they place the finger exactly where it belongs—upon the man.

If any useful purpose is subserved by this investigation, it is that men and women, whether they heed it or not, have been compelled again to consider the existing moral standard set for a woman and that established by general social leniency and complacency for the man who makes the woman pay the whole penalty. The women who have written these letters to the Illinois senators want to know why the facts are not fairly and squarely faced.

"You're all a bunch of hypocrites, afraid to look the thing in the face and afraid to learn the truth. Make the men be good and the girls will be good."

Undenably the day is not far off when the men whom these girls describe as human vultures must pay the reckoning demanded by society and outraged public opinion. Gradually the popular conscience is being educated, if it never was before. The world is coming to see that it is hideously wrong to make a woman always the scapegoat and let the man who caused or thrust her over the brink go free. The result of this investigation in Chicago may or may not be to make wages, it must inevitably be a part of the trend of the times, the general movement of the day—raise the standard by which careless and selfish men are measured in the community. It must eventually come to pass that those who cast a stone at a wrong woman will guiltily be aware of their own glass houses, and so be shamed into silence. The dual standard of morality in an enlightened day will be swept into the limbo of the dark ages.

Another G. K. W.

By RUTH CAMERON.

The optimism of the average person about some things is as astonishing as his pessimism about others.

The cheerful blindness with which most people make up their budget without allowing for those unexpected contingencies which always happen—except when you are looking for them, as the Irishman said—is a grand lesson on the wrong kind of optimism.

The other night I heard two young people discussing the project of buying a two-family house, renting one-half and living in the other. The plan of action was that they should pay a small amount down and take a large mortgage. The wife was the ardent one in the scheme. She had it all figured out that it would cost them less than they now paid for an undesirable suite. She had it all down in black and white; what the interest on the mortgage would be, what the taxes would be, what the rent of the other half of the house would bring in (against its fixtures), and what the rent of the other half would prompt pointed out she had made no allowance for the chance that the other half of the house might not be rented all the time, none for deterioration and none for the lost interest on the small sum of money they would actually invest in the house.

You see, she was one of those hopeless optimists in regard to money matters.

It is the same kind of optimism which makes us all allow too little for incidents which we are making up our budget for any scheme. Why is it we always come home from our summer vacation without a cent? Nine times out of ten it isn't because we paid more than we expected for board or fare, or any of the other big things. It's just because that wicked old money-eater "incidents" gobbled up more than we allowed for.

I fancy it's another phase of the same optimism which makes most of us cheerfully drop the decimals from a price figure, and think of $4.98 as $4 instead of $5, which it actually approximates.

You remember the lady who, in making up her expense account, charged all the money which she could not itemize to "G. K. W." meaning "Godness Knows What." A still more helpful arrangement for most of us would be to have a G. K. W. column in our budget of probable expenses. We should allow as large a sum as we think we can possibly need for accidents and then add half as much again. It wouldn't do any harm you know if there should happen to be some left over, but there isn't much danger.

Battle Creek, Michigan, is not noted for its size, but for its breakfasts. Battle Creek has only 25,000 people but they prepare breakfasts not only for themselves, but for many millions of others each morning. Each day a trainload of grain rolls into the city, and each day two trainloads of transfigured, embroiled and evaporated wheat, corn and oats go out in packages to a hungry nation.

Battle Creek is surrounded and connected with breakfast food centers. It is not because the grain around Battle Creek is any better than it is elsewhere, but because the city has chosen its advertising men with great care. These men have invented names which taste as well as the foods themselves. The result is that Battle Creek is now full of happy millionaires who amuse themselves by building libraries, hospitals, hotels, opera houses and country clubs. Competition is a terrible thing in some parts, but when two rival manufacturers get to competing in the matter of building public monuments in its midst, Battle Creek looks on with remarkable resignation.

Battle Creek was named from a creek which infests the vicinity, but whom the creek fought is not recorded. It is noted for its Saturdays, which are the quietest in the country for a city of its size. This is because Battle Creek is full of Seventh Day Adventists. Battle Creek makes steam thrashers, and repairs digestions for thousands of people yearly, at two vast sanitariums. Many an ambitious man, who sets out in life to go to Washington or to Wall Street, comes to Battle Creek instead, and has his frazzled nervous system rewired and tuned up.

Battle Creek is the greatest competitor of Sunday and Hawaii in the championship. It has a factory which keeps half a dozen gardeners and lawn-mowers busy, and it gets its name into the newspaper often than any other city of its size in the world. If Post and Kellogg should go away, Battle Creek would droop and pine. But if they stay it will have a million people some day.

THE HASKIN LETTER THE MODERN WOMAN H. WOMEN IN THE HOME.

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The modern woman recognizes clearly her duty in relation to outside things that influence her home, but at the same time she realizes that she must make her home circle what it ought to be in respect to the things that are there located. It may be her duty to lead a crusade for clean streets, but this does not absolve her from an obligation to keep a clean kitchen.

She believes that bad homes and uncomfortable lives result in bad character. The woman of the best intentions may fall through lack of knowledge as to do for her home and her family, what she most desires to do. Therefore, the modern woman insists that the basis of good housekeeping is education in the science of housekeeping.

With the entrance of women into other professions a generation ago there came a temporary neglect of matters domestic, so that there was a ground for the complaint that the woman of higher education was not a competent homemaker. Now the pendulum is swinging back and the supreme importance of the work of women in the home is becoming so well recognized that most of the higher institutions of learning to which women are admitted, are supplying courses of study in home-making. These courses of study are but little less complete and elaborate than are the courses preparing for medicine, law and other learned professions. The time is past when it is conceded that any woman can manage a home without special preparation. The changing conditions of modern life have brought so many complex problems into the home that a woman cannot hope to solve them without a knowledge of many arts and sciences.

Should Understand Arrangement.

The modern home is equipped with a more or less intricate plumbing system. The woman in charge must understand something of its arrangement in order to take proper precautions to avoid the pipes becoming clogged up, involving needless plumbing bills and insanitary conditions. Sometimes this requires a knowledge of chemistry also, as a careful housekeeper recently found to her cost. She attended a lecture upon sanitation and cleanliness in which the use of lye in drains and sinks was advocated. She instructed her cook to put lye in her kitchen drain. Presently the drain was clogged and a plumber had to be called. He found that the too-free use of lye had caused hard soap to form inside the pipes because the cook, being rather a careless dishwasher, had thrown a considerable amount of grease into the drain. This united with the lye and formed a soap, as a slight knowledge of chemistry would have suggested.

A few years ago the liberality of Hon. George Stout of Menominee, Wisconsin, made possible the establishment of a school for home makers which has become recognized as a model of its kind—not only in this country but abroad. It grew out of a training school for domestic science teachers, because it was shown that many young women desired to take a technical course in domestic science who had no desire to teach and, therefore, were unwilling to take pedagogical work. This school, which was opened in 1907, took for its basic considerations the economic, scientific, artistic and ethical conditions which must be combined in the making of a home. It is planned upon the principle that the family is a business organization, a social unit and an ethical force. The woman is the administrative officer of the business organization of the family. It is assumed that the man provides the funds of carrying on the business of the home and that the woman disburses them properly. The scope of the work in this unique but practical school is broad but is subdivided into many courses. The first deals with the house itself and includes sanitation, decoration, furnishing and house management. This last is especially important and, in order that the students may learn it properly, cottages are provided in which they may keep house for a year.

Lessons in Home-Making.

The course in business management in this school of home-making, includes a thorough study in comparative values which is intended to fit the young woman to secure adequate results from the money expended. It also gives instruction in the proper promotion of the family income among the different lines of home expenditures, the systematizing and keeping of family accounts, the organization and division of household labor, the question of domestic service and many other topics. These subjects first are considered in theoretical discussion and afterward put into practical application in the supervision and care of the home-makers' cottages, which is a part of the second year's work in this school.

Many other institutions make a specialty of instruction in home-making. Last year Columbia university, in New York, opened a magnificent new building for this purpose. It also prints numerous bulletins which are available to home students. One of its most practical publications is a monograph entitled "The Feeding of the Children in a Family with an Income of $300 a Year." Cornell university also has published a number of bulletins upon the general subject of child feeding and both of these institutions provide excellent courses upon many home-making subjects. Each year hundreds of housewives go to the University of Wisconsin to attend lectures upon special subjects. They learn how to test milk and how to preserve it in its purity for the use of their children. They learn food values and diets, which subjects have assumed real scientific value in university curriculums.

The study of food selection and preparation presents a problem which, when properly solved, means perfect nutrition to the human family, which is the great end in view. It includes sifting the food to the individual need and consideration of the effect of different foods upon the human body. For instance, it recently has been demonstrated that one of the many good qualities of cornbread is to preserve the teeth. Among the applicants from the southern states seeking to join the United States navy, it is stated that none is rejected on account of poor teeth. The reason of this superior dental condition in the men of that region is the fact that all their lives they have been accustomed to eat a large proportion of cornbread.

Courses in Food Study.

The knowledge gained by a course of food study and preparation includes chemistry, biology, physiology and dietetics, each of which is treated as a separate science. The object of the woman in charge of the modern home is not to give her family the food which simply will satisfy their hunger, but rather that which will satisfy all of the needs of their bodies. Nutrition or maintenance in childhood may be felt throughout adult life. The woman in the home also has much to do with the selection and purchase of the family wardrobe, and the care of it afterward. A comprehensive knowledge of the qualities of all fabrics is needed to secure the best results. It is necessary that she be able to recognize the difference between wool and cotton and to know the advantages of each used separately, as well as the economy of fabrics for certain purposes, in which wool and cotton are properly combined. There is a difference between the quality of the wool and cotton which for some uses may be superior to all-wool fabrics, and a cheap shoddy mixture which is composed of the refuse products of both. The latter will have no stable wearing quality, although it may be attractive in appearance when new. The same necessity exists for being able to distinguish linen from mercerized cotton, as well as to know the quality

WILL GIVE PRIZES TO BOYS AND GIRLS

Agriculturalist to Stimulate Interest in Farming in This County

To decide the championship in corn, potato, sugar beet and poultry raising among the boys and in canning and pickling among the girls of El Paso county, and to stimulate in general good farming among the younger generation, County Agriculturalist W. H. Lauck is busy these days completing arrangements for the formation of boys' and girls' clubs throughout the county. School gardens will form a prominent part of the work, and already both the Pikeview school and Fountain high school have started plans for such gardens. At Fountain there will be special competition for farm products raised by the boys on their home ranches.

Such competitions throughout Kansas, Nebraska and the south have not only increased the interest of the young people in farming, but have brought about better methods, and Agent Lauck will supervise the work here to see that the children use the best seed and ideas in their work. Prizes are to be given for the best products, the value of which have not yet been determined.

Mr. Lauck, in company with D. W. Working, district leader of the agriculturalists in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, will go to Union Hill school house tonight for the organization of a farmers' club and, for the same purpose, John Lennon, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, and one of the county commissioners may accompany Lauck and Working tonight.

"The recent snows and cold weather will not delay crops at all in El Paso county, but will add to the moisture already stored up in the soil," said Mr. Lauck yesterday. "The frost is out of the ground, and things look fine for a banner year in dry farming. Conditions couldn't be better."

GOAL MINERS DISARMED

The coal mining camp at Lake View, scene of frequent disturbances and occasional shooting affrays and an outbreak last Sunday when intoxicated miners tried to settle their dispute with bullets, was disarmed yesterday by District Attorney Purcell and Sheriff Birdsall. From Italians, Mexicans and other foreigners, who constitute the troublesome element of the camp, the officers secured seven rifles, five shotguns and six revolvers. The men reluctantly parted with their weapons, but were compelled to obey the measure for safety in the camp.

Rheumatism Affects Lungs

Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Phthisis, Asthma and Anemia Often Directly the Result of Rheumatic Blood.

If you have a persistent, nagging, bronchial cough beware of cough remedies. They are merely local in action, and if they do relieve it is the narcotics that do it. What you require is a blood purifier, a searching antidote that removes from the circulation the acid poisons that by their reflexes attack all weakness, susceptible spots and thus create local symptoms. The very best remedy known is Swift's Pure Specific. You will find it on sale in any drug store at $1.00 per bottle. It goes straight into the blood, becomes an internal blood purifier, cures all the local fever spots and irritations, increases appetite, you take on flesh and feel a wonderful sense of renewed strength. Hundreds of people, worried beyond control at cough, pains in the chest, sore throat and constant expectoration of thick mucous have experienced the most wonderful change after using S. S. S. All doubt and apprehension is gone, those peculiar pains and aches vanish. There follows a period of most intense rejoicing to find that worst fears were based entirely upon a mistaken notion that cough and chest pains come from the lungs. These are rheumatic conditions, and you will quickly realize it after using S. S. S. for a few days. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today at the drug store and then say good-by to all those pains that have worried you.

Write to The Swift Specific Co., 127 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for medical advice and wonderful facts concerning the greatest blood remedy ever known.

ELKS TO GIVE MUSICAL

COMEDY AT THE BURNS

The production of the musical comedy, "The Isle of Kal-to-Kee," the first presentation of the piece in any city tonight and tomorrow night at the Burns theater, promises to be one of the notable events of the theatrical season in Colorado Springs. The actual tryouts in working up the production have shown the lyrics and the music well adapted for a stage presentation, and the cast has been well drilled and is handling its work in excellent shape. The final dress rehearsal was held last night, and those who witnessed it say that the piece will prove to be the best offering in the long list of Elks successes.

The advance seat sale up to last night far exceeded the expectations of the committee in charge. It has been announced that seat reservations will be held until 5 o'clock this afternoon for tonight's performance, and until the same hour tomorrow afternoon for the second performance. The curtain each evening will rise promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Society will be out in force at the "Isle of Kal-to-Kee." Several box parties have been scheduled for each evening, and the list of seat reservations to date includes the names of many people prominent in local circles. The patronesses of the affair include many leaders in the social circles of Colorado Springs.

Chamber Commerce Smoker Proves to Be Great Success

Several hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce got together in the smoker and social session at the Chamber rooms in The Burns building last night, and found that this feature of the membership is one well worth attending. A spirit of congeniality and informality took hold of the meeting, and it proved a most enjoyable affair. Leading the battling list of features was the story telling of W. S. Hartwell, auditor of the Cripple Creek Short Line railroad. Mr. Hartwell had a string of "live ones" up his sleeve that he unraveled with an entertaining style that scored from the start. He kept the crowd roaring during his part of the show. A negro quartet followed with a number of choice popular and classic southern melodies, and the session ended with a good lunch and cigars.

So successful was the session that others are being planned for the near future.

CONSULTATION TODAY ON ILLNESS OF W. S. DUNNING

Manager W. S. Dunning of the Antlers hotel is still seriously ill from pneumonia in his apartments at the hotel, and his condition remained unchanged yesterday, according to Dr. D. J. Scully, who is in charge of the case. The issue of the case is still considered so doubtful that a consultation of several physicians, some of them from Denver, will be held this morning.

SECOND PRESBYTERIAN SHOWS HEALTHY GROWTH

The annual business meeting, roll call and social of the congregation of the Second Presbyterian church was held at the church last night, with an attendance of about 60. The reports presented were most encouraging, and showed a healthy growth in the church. The congregation re-elected Paul E. Brooks elder, to serve for a term of three years, and re-elected Mrs. William Donald and Earl Dummire trustees for a like term. Miles Cook was re-elected treasurer of the church. The number of ushers of the church was increased to four, two being added. This board now consists of J. A. Maston, Earl Dummire, Harold E. Cook and Miles Cook. All action taken last night was unanimous.

The ladies of the congregation served refreshments.

EXACTLY 8,034 CHILDREN OF SCHOOL AGE IN SPRINGS

There are 8,034 children of school age living in Colorado Springs, according to the census of district No. 11, which was completed yesterday, after a month's work. Of this number, 2,543 are boys and 4,956 are girls, giving the girls a majority of 116, an increase over the report of 1912. The census showed practically the same number of children of school age as last year. Seven enumerators have been busy collecting and tabulating the names.

Schedule Announced for Socialist Forum

Programs and speakers have been announced for a number of the meetings of the Socialist forum, to be held in the near future. At the meeting next Sunday evening, in Carpenters hall, the Rev. Samuel Garvin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver an address on "In the Wilderness and the Way Out." This will be followed, April 1 or 2, by an address by George Brower of the "Appeal to Reason," who will lecture at the court house. At the meeting Sunday evening, April 6, Prof. J. V. Brettweiser of Colorado college will speak on "The New School Plan," and Sunday, April 13, two Socialists and two Progressives will debate the question, "Resolved, That Socialism is the only system of society that can solve our present-day problems." All the meetings, with the exception of the one to be addressed by Brower, will be held in Carpenters hall, and questions and remarks from the floor will be allowed, except when the debate is held.

NEWS FROM OMAHA

Word was received yesterday from Mrs. F. P. Wulff from her husband in Omaha, that his three brothers, who live in that city, were unharmed in the tornado of last Sunday. Efforts to locate his and his wife's relatives in Blair and Craig, Neb., had not been successful. Mr. Wulff wired, and he will make an inspection in these towns today.

"I can't begin to describe the terrible sights I have seen here," said Mr. Wulff in his telegram.

No word has been received from Omaha as to the safety of H. D. Robertson of this city, or of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Clouston, cousin of Ernest H. Smith of Colorado Springs. The local people have made attempts to get into communication with their relatives, but, so far, have been unsuccessful.

HENDERSON DESCRIBES TORNADO IN OMAHA

R. L. Henderson, mail agent on the Rock Island, and brother of Secretary A. W. Henderson of the Chamber of Commerce, has returned on his regular trip from Omaha, where he witnessed scenes following the tornado disaster of Sunday. He describes the scene as one of terror-stricken people and destruction. H. H. Phom of 326 South Nevada avenue, a member of the Rock Island train crew, formerly was a resident of Omaha. His former home was blown away by the storm.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS MEET HERE APRIL 13-15

The annual convention of the El Paso County Sunday School association, which was to have been held in this city last week, will meet April 13, 14 and 15 in the first Christian church.

The five denominational state Sunday school associations for Colorado, the Rev. S. Allen Bush of the Congregational church, the Rev. Mr. Parker of the Methodist, the Rev. Mr. Dean of the Christian, the Rev. Mr. Sly of the Baptist, and the Rev. Mr. Steidley of the Presbyterian, will close their statewide tour in this city in connection with the county convention. These experts, who are devoting their entire time to the Sunday school work in the state, will present an excellent program opening with a big rally Sunday afternoon, to be followed by addresses in the evening in the various churches. Monday afternoon and evening they also will have charge of the program, giving special attention to the administration, efficiency, equipment, etc. of the Bible school. The Tuesday sessions will be devoted to business and conferences, with an illustrated lecture by Mrs. J. A. Walker of Denver, state superintendent of the elementary department. Tuesday night will be devoted to the teacher training work and special addresses.

BLANCH PELTIER ASKS FOR A SECOND TRIAL

Blanch Peltier, who was found guilty of keeping a disorderly house by a jury last week in the district court, yesterday filed a motion for a new trial. She alleges that the court erred in allowing the district attorney to introduce testimony for the purpose of impeaching plaintiffs' witnesses, Patrolmen Prost and Ten Esck and Detective Gavin.

"Young man, when you buy a buggy, be sure it's a Studebaker"

Sound advice from the man who has been driving one for twenty years.

When you buy a Studebaker buggy you are buying all the skill, experience and science in buggy building that half a century can produce. You are protecting yourself against the mistakes of younger builders.

You will always be proud of the Studebaker nameplate, for there isn't a buggy on the road that is its equal for style, luxury and good looks.

Flexible bent-reach gear, graceful lines, solid corner, plugless body, double-iron shafts, are a few of the special Studebaker features.

The new close-fitting shifting rail is enough in itself to make you buy a Studebaker buggy.

from hearing this best glee club that the University of Denver has ever sent out, but those who were present, expressed themselves, without a dissenting voice, as being delighted with the program.

Rev. W. E. Bennett, pastor of St. Paul's church, under whose auspices the entertainment was given, writes: "I was delightfully surprised at the splendid singing of some of the individuals and at the versatility of the club and orchestra. There was not a poor number on the program. It was a performance of exceptional entertainment."

The circumstances under which the club sang makes it possible to offer the second entertainment without charging any admission. It is hoped that the First Methodist church will be filled with a waiting audience to hear these gifted and exuberant young collegians. They expect to render an entirely new program.

A silver offering will be taken at the door.

JOHN DREW

Charles Frohman will present John Drew in a new comedy by Alfred Sater, "The Perplexed Husband," at the Grand Opera House, Monday, March 25. The scenes are laid in London, where this play and the "Perplexed" takes place during three days. The theme of the play is very modern, dealing as it does on the contemporary subject of woman suffrage.

Thomas Felling, a tea-merchant, has returned home to find his attractive young wife converted to the cause of the enfranchisement of women. She has introduced a middle-aged husband, who is a perfect blunderer, and who is only for carresses and caresses against what she considers his tyranny.

The poor husband is against the change that has taken place in his life, and he is not what to do. On the advice of a married sister, who is of a practical turn of mind, he pretends to fall in with the new ideas that his wife has embraced. Then, to show how advanced he has become, the husband introduces into the house a beautiful woman with a Greek god who he thinks needs converting also. This has the effect of making the wife furiously jealous, and one day she finds that they do not fit with her real nature. The complications, meanwhile, are of an amusing description.

Mr. Drew's support includes Mary Bidwell, Herbert Dress, Alice Stein, Margaret Watson and Walter Wright.

COMBINATION FORMED TO PASS PHILIP BILL

Governor Ammons and Other Friends Get Together and Lend Support to Insurance Measure

By R. M. MCCLINTOCK.

DENVER, March 26.—That Governor Ammons and other friends of the Philip insurance bill have formed a combination insuring the passage through the house of the new code was demonstrated this morning. The combination includes the Stetson-Phincher Democrats, the Hasty Republicans, and enough of the lukewarm progressives to hold the balance of a good vote.

This combination demonstrated its control this morning when an amendment providing that the reserve fund of the Colorado companies, as of others, must be on a 3 1/2 per cent basis, instead of 4 per cent, was voted down, and when a motion to strike out the enacting clause of the bill was also defeated.

The bill in its present form—backed by Governor Ammons' Farmers Life and other Colorado companies—not only exempts Colorado companies from payment of the 2 per cent income tax, but also allows them to put up a smaller reserve than is required of foreign companies. This, it was claimed, this morning by opponents of the bill, is in reality, a deceit on the policy holders in Colorado companies, since they are led to believe that they are protected by the same reserve as are the holders of foreign policies.

Ammons Working for Bill.

Governor Ammons, it has been reported, has been very busy on behalf of the bill. He is president of the Farmers Life Insurance company, a concern still in the promotion stage, but which, if the new bill is passed favoring Colorado companies, may be put on its feet.

Ammons and the other Colorado companies have, however, thrown out the Clayton bill, who has been charged of being in the house, announced this morning that the civil service provisions might be fixed to suit the house; there will be no further effort made to protect Clayton in his office. But the governor, and those he has been able to line up, will insist that the discriminatory features against foreign companies be retained.

They take their stand on the ground that home industries should be protected. Among those who spoke along this line this morning were: Vogt, Fincher, Hasty, Slattery and Philip, all of whom, throughout the session, with the exception of Philip, have been serving provisions and concurred in the bill. The Clayton bill, which is a certain loss of about $10,000. It may mean the loss of $50,000, the receipts of the tax for the past year. The present law has just been upheld, but there are many who claim that the new law would not be, and that, therefore, through the exemption of the Colorado companies, all might escape the tax.

May Not Stand in Courts.

It was pointed out in debate today over the striking out of the enacting clause, that the bill is now in such a shape that no one knows whether or not it will stand the test of the courts. It has been so often amended that it is a veritable hodgepodge. The clauses exempting Colorado companies have been retained, however, and Philip insisted this morning that they are the essential features.

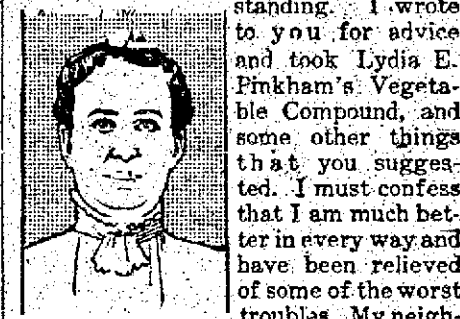

The motion to strike the enacting clause was made by Persons, and urged by Wright of Denver and Lewis of Teller. Speaker Skinner admitted that the measure was in poor shape, but was against striking the enacting clause, being in favor of retaining the present code, with what amendments may be necessary. There was no roll call on Persons' motion.

The full train crew bill met death on third reading in the house this morning, the vote standing 31-37.

COMPLICATION OF WOMAN'S ILLS

Yields to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Athens, Texas.—"I had a complication of diseases, some of them of long standing. I wrote to you for advice and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and some other things that you suggested. I must confess that I am much better in every way and have been relieved of some of the worst troubles. My neighbors say I look younger now than I did fifteen years ago."—Mrs. SARAH R. WHITLEY, Athens, Texas. R. F. D. No. 2, Box 92.

"We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 30 years.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of them state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

28 yeas. Two more votes were needed to carry the bill. A similar measure had already been put to death in the senate.

At the same time the house passed, by a vote of 37 to 16, the Mitchell bill for improving the breeding of horses, which is the emphatic term, by which race-track bills are always designated in law. The bill, on its face, is innocent, and those who voted against it did so because of their belief that there is a joker concealed in the measure somewhere, so anxious are the race-track gambling interests to have it passed.

This vote on the Mitchell bill was as follows:

Aye: Andrew, Ardourel, Ashton, Bennett, Biles, Boyle, Cantin, Elmore, Ferguson, Fincher, Frazzini, Galloway, Hasty, Hasty, Lewis, McCarty, McDonald, Mayer, Philbin, Scheffer, Simpson, Slattery, Smith, Talt, Turnbull, Vogt, Weaver, Werner, West, Williams, Wright, Young—37.

Nay: Cunningham, Finch, Gates (Montezuma), Hawkins, Kavanaugh, Mann, Newton, Norvell, Persons, Philip, Richards, Riddle, Smedley, Sweet, Thomas, Speaker Skinner—16.

Kavanaugh voted aye when his name was called, but before the vote was announced, changed to nay.

The house passed, on third reading, the bill fixing a minimum salary for school teachers, and concurred in the amendments to Ashton's petty jury bill and Andrew's bill fixing the fees of judges and clerks of county courts.

The senate this morning passed Stephan's bill amending the fee bill, the finance committee's bill prohibiting the circulation of initiative and referendum petitions by state officers and employees, and Andrew's anti-trust bill. The latter has already passed the house, but must go back for concurrence in the senate amendments.

In committee of the whole, the senate then passed, on second reading, Denver's mountain parks bill, which is made applicable also, to all cities of the first and second class, and all charter cities. It permits cities to condemn and purchase, for park and boulevard purposes, lands lying outside the city limits.

The Antislavery league offered opposition to the bill as first drawn, but a substitute offered by Affolter of Boulder was this morning substituted. It forbids the granting of saloon licenses within the parks so acquired, or within a distance of 1200 feet of such parks and the roads, not more than two in number, connecting them with the city.

Two other economy measures were launched in the senate, one providing that the state horticulturist shall be a member of the State Agricultural college faculty, and shall receive only $500 salary and expenses for his additional duties, and the other limiting to six the state fish hatcheries and assistant superintendents. The hatcheries are at Denver, Glenwood, Del Norte, Steamboat Springs, Durango and Gunnison.

When the prize fight bill was called up again in the senate this morning, Senator Berry, who is in charge of it, asked to have action deferred until April 2. Berry has been doing this for a month. But he is in a peculiar position. He is a candidate for the office of city commissioner in Denver and he is seeking the votes both of the friends and opponents of prize fighting. So he dares not vote against the bill and dares not vote for it. He promises the prize fight people that he will force the bill to a vote as soon as circumstances appear propitious, while he assures the opponents of prize fighting that he will not allow the bill to come to a vote at this session. And he thinks, by this method, he is placating both sides.

DENVER, March 26.—Threatened with a wholesale reduction in salaries the employees at the state house are planning the organization of a union.

Altho James Kerwin, former secretary of the Western Federation of Miners, as organizer, a meeting of all employees whose pay is not fixed by statute, has been called for tomorrow night. At this meeting, according to the plans of the leaders of the movement, the Capital Employees Protective Association will be launched.

Governor Ammons and legislative leaders have determined upon a policy of economy that involves deep slashes in the payrolls and the hiring of fewer employees than in the past.

UTILITIES BILL IS NOW IN CONFERENCE

By R. M. MCCLINTOCK.

DENVER, March 26.—The Burris-Van Elburg utilities bill is now in conference between the senate and house. Members of the conference committee spent the afternoon endeavoring to reach an agreement. It is not believed there will be any great difficulty in doing this.

The committee is composed of Senators Burris and Hitts. Representatives Ardourel, Mitchell and Hawkins. Hawkins is the only member of the committee who is not a Democrat; he is a Progressive from Delta county. Some members of the house criticize Speaker Skinner for naming Mitchell on the committee, as he is a Denver Democrat who has been against all progressive measures. Skinner, however, takes the ground that the opponents of the bill were entitled to recognition on the committee.

There are several points at controversy. The house amended the bill, striking out the names of the present railroad commissioners, and reducing salaries from $5,000 to $3,000. The senate conferees announced that they would insist on these amendments being stricken. It is not believed the house members will hold out on them. The house, however, will make a fight to retain the Persons amendments, which were the most important features added in the house. Burris had stated that he was not necessarily opposed to these.

THE DAY'S HAPPENINGS IN SPORT CIRCLES

Filed for THE GAZETTE by E. F. Overholt

Lightweight Division Is Lance Hornet's Nest

Ritchie's Head Uneasy With Crown; Rivers to Jolt Willie

From the time that boxing became recognized as a sport throughout the world, and more especially in the last 10 or 12 years, the lightweight division, as that class in which men who box at 133 pounds has been known, has always been one of the busiest divisions. In the old days, when Frank Erne, George McFadden, Jack McAuliffe, "Kid" McPartland, "Kid" Lavigne, Dai Hawkins, Joe Gans and a dozen others whose names are still known to all followers of the sport engaged in battles of the ring, some of the best sport was witnessed. With the passing of those boxers came Jimmy Britt, "Young" Lobbett, the one and only Battling Nelson, and after Nelson Ad Wolcott. The last named boxer, with the exception of Wolcott, have passed out through the ropes, to turn no more as principals, but fighting their way upward have come other men who are recognized by the enthusiasts today.

Willie Ritchie of San Francisco—Gary Steffen he is in private life—is the present champion of the class. "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is an expression that has endured through ages, and never did it apply with more force than to Ritchie. Striving to shed him of his title and laurels is a brigade of lightweights, which, if it does not compare equally with the former champions, is, to say the least, formidable. There are Joe Rivers, that remarkable little dreadnought of Los Angeles; Leach Cross of this city; Joe Mandot, the New Orleans lad; Jack Britton of Chicago; Tommy Murphy, the ever improving Irishman of Flatbush, and the somewhat damaged, but still capable former champion, Ad Wolcott. Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of Great Britain, and Hughie McLean of Australia are also worthy of consideration.

Ritchie has done no boxing save exhibition bouts in the past since he won his title from Wolcott last November. If his statement that he will not box before July 4, and then only if he receives a guarantee of $20,000 for a 20-round battle, is to be accepted, it is more than probable that he will die of old age before he defends his title against any of his numerous challengers. His statement of Ritchie, however, must be taken with several grains of salt. Like many other athletes who have tried to elevate the stage, he will undoubtedly return to his own game. In that event he will not sign in vain for spirited action.

In the opinion of more than one enthusiast, Joe Rivers is the man who will give Ritchie most trouble. Rivers represents the ideal type of the closer fighter. He is fast as a boxer, and a more savage, hard-hitting lightweight never crawled through the ropes. When Rivers lowers his head and rips in to fight something has to yield, and it is generally his opponent. The New York "fame" will long remember how Rivers took most of the fight out of Leach Cross and won by a slight margin when all seemed lost. It was agreed at the time that in one more minute he would have won by a knockout, for Cross was tottering on the brink from the volleys of sledge hammer blows that had crashed through his guard. GOLF CLUB MEMBERS TO ENJOY A DAY OF TRIVOLITY APRIL 5

"Reserve Saturday afternoon and evening, April 5, 1913. A special en- tertainment will be given for the ladies and gentlemen. Later notice will fol- low."

The foregoing notices have been sent out by the Colorado Springs Golf club for the annual meeting, which will be held at the club house at 5 p. m. April 5. As the entertainment committee decides upon the features for the meeting additional notices will be sent to members.

Instead of limiting the celebration attending the annual meeting to the men of the club provision will be made for the entertainment of the ladies. If the weather is nice there will be a tournament for the men and probably approaching putting and close golf for the ladies. Cards also will offer amusement for the guests. Hand-some prizes will be given in all of the contests. Tea will be served in the afternoon. The annual meeting is called for 6 o'clock, for the election of five directors for a term of three years. At 7 o'clock a buffet supper will be served.

The feature of the evening will be a vaudeville entertainment, put on by members of the club, in a miniature theater, which is being built in the basement of the club house. This will be followed by dancing. Music will be furnished by an orchestra from 8 to 12 p. m.

top of the class, and today he is looked upon as one of the most formidable men in the arena. The flame-haired Irishman is boxing better today than at any time in his life, and there are few who care to engage with him in battle. In his recent battle with Ad Wolcott he outboxed him and outpointed him in 15 of the 20 rounds, but was given only a draw. The one falling that stands between Murphy and the title today is his lack of hitting power. He is clever and aggressive to a fault, but he cannot snap his punches in a way to bring victory.

Once highly rated, and still well thought of, Joe Mandot and Ad Wolcott are still along. The defeat of Mandot by Cross put a decided clamp on his prospects. While Wolcott has shown signs of slowing up, it was in fact, his deep-dyed dislike for Murphy that kept him going in the battle at San Francisco as much as anything, for that was one bout he wanted to win above all others.

From the present view, an elimination tournament of the lightweights seems to be the only way out of the difficulty of selecting a man to meet Ritchie. Certain it is that the champion will not fight all his challengers, but he would undoubtedly fight the man who proved his worth at the expense of the others who are clamoring for a chance. It is in this way, no doubt, that the promoters will solve the question, as they did in the featherweight tournaments, which led to the crowning of a new featherweight champion, and the present panama-weight battle, which will lead, no doubt, to a successor to Johnny Coulton.

Ritchie is really built for the welterweights. His frame is entirely too big to allow him to remain in the ranks of the lightweights. At the present time he weighs well over 140 pounds, and soon, like McPartland, he will be forced to go in and box in the ranks of the next biggest class.

PIRATES HAVE 34 PLAYERS TO MAKE UP TEAM

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 26.—It will not be many days now until the canning season will be opened in Hot Springs. Fred Clarke thought he would have fewer problems to solve this year than ever before, and for that reason expected to have the smallest party of Pirates ever assembled here for his inspection, but he has the largest number he has ever taken to Dixie to get into condition for the summer's pursuit of the peanuts. There are 33 players, exclusive of himself, and the arrival of Holderman, the Pacific coast candidate for guardianship of the first sack brings the number up to 34. He cannot use them all, of course, and he will find no trouble in disposing of his surplus. Both Clarke and President Dreyfus are persistently pestered by minor league managers who put in requests for certain players. Some of them are not even specified; they are willing to take anybody the club cannot use. This speaks well for Fred Clarke's ability as a manager. The pilots of bush league clubs figure that anybody the considers worth looking over in the spring will be good enough for them if he decides to turn them back.

It is an inevitable rule of the club, however, to place the cast-offs with managers who know the game, except that they may be further developed and that their own interests may be put in safe hands. If they possess speed and ability in a rough state the club may want to hold a string on them. If Clarke decides that they lack the requirements of major league players he tries to put them in a higher class league than the one they came up from, so that no minor leaguer who fails to stick with the big show is any worse off for having trained with the Pirates in the spring.

For many years an annual contest in the training camp has centered around the initial sack, but this spring Clarke does not have to select a first baseman. "Duke" Miller will play the bag, and if his future may be judged by the progress he made last season and the form he is now showing, he will play it to the complete satisfaction of the club management.

NEW YORK, March 26.—No time has been lost by the committee in charge of the arrangements for the international polo matches which are to be held on the Meadow Brook field June 10 and 11 with another game later if it should be necessary. Notice was sent out yesterday that applications for box seats should be made before April 15 to participate in the tournament, which will be made April 28. Though preference will be given to members of the Polo association, allotments will be made as nearly as possible in the order in which applications are received.

Boxes and seats for the entire series only will be sold at the following prices: West stand, boxes for entire series, $200; center, $100; other boxes, $50; limited number of grandstand seats near the center of the field for the entire series, $15; other grandstand seats for entire series, $10. East stand, grandstand seats for entire series, $10.

Applications for grandstand seats for single days will not be entertained before May 28. Only holders of boxes in the west stand will be entitled to admission to the club enclosure. No parking spaces for automobiles are provided, but ample field space for all vehicles will be provided outside. Applications for reservations should be made to Victor E. Schaumburg, secretary committee of arrangements, 6 East Forty-sixth street.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The schedule of football games for the Midshipmen next fall was announced today. The list does not include any of the traditional "Big Four," but there are several teams which are likely to give the Navy lads just as much of a contest as they wish.

The place and date of the game against the Army eleven has not been announced, but it will almost surely take place at Philadelphia or New York. The Georgetown has not appeared on the academy schedule in recent years.

The local games are as follows: October 4, University of Pittsburgh; October 11, George town; October 18, Dickinson; October 25, George Washington; November 1, Lehigh; November 8, Bucknell; November 15, Pennsylvania State; November 22, New York University.

WOOD'S BROTHER
ALSO HURLS

BOSTON, Mass., March 26.—Joe Wood, younger brother of Pitcher Pete Wood of the Red Sox, has signed to pitch for the Brockton club of the New England league. According to Joe, Pete has learned all that his brother has picked up in the big league, and has the speed and stamina necessary to make a winner. The younger brother is 6 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 151 pounds, and has played a lot of ball out around Glen Falls, Pa.

WEATHER WILL PUT TIGERS BACK FOR FIRST GAME APRIL 5

Although thankful that his field had not been washed away by floods or blown over by Pike's Peak, Coach Rothwell of the Tigers is not so much pleased at the extension of winter, which has deprived the Tiger baseball and track candidates of a week of practice. Rothwell has beautiful plans outlined for morning practice and afternoon games all week for his squad, but so far there have been no practice jabs of any description.

If the sun warms the atmosphere today and melts the snow, Washburn field may be in condition for play Saturday, but chances are against it. The games with the All-Stars have been indefinitely postponed. Neither Cutler or the High school players have been at work since last Saturday. The first college game is scheduled for April 5, a week from Saturday. The state teams are liable to go into the opening frays in green condition.

AN EPIDEMIC OF COUGHING is sweeping over the town and young and old are alike affected. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is a quick, safe, reliable family medicine for coughs and colds. A. S. MOST FAMOUS UMPIRE IN U. S. RETIRES; NEVER WAS PLAYER BUT KNEW GAME

Jack Sheridan, dean of baseball umpires for years the best indicator man in the history of the game, has retired from active duty after twenty-eight years in the service. Sheridan was partially retired last year when Ben Johnson of the American League made him chief of staff, positioned the veteran and gave him carte blanche to do as he pleased. But in spite of his laurels, Sheridan continued in the game. This year, however, he has decided to take full advantage of his pension and pass his time in his home state—California. No more will he be harassed on the field or perplexed with the problem of securing talent for the staff of umpires that hands out decisions for the American League.

Instead of that he will spend most of his time in San Jose, where he has business interests, with occasional trips to San Francisco when the passion for baseball is too strong to hold him.

Although umpires, as a rule, are not given much publicity, there is no more prominent figure in baseball today than Jack Sheridan. Unlike others, Sheridan, who was born in San Jose, was never a professional baseball player. His first work as an umpire was with the Southern association in 1893. He then went to the New York State league and has given his best efforts to the Brotherhood, the National and American leagues and has worked on the coast.

NO COMMENT ON LIPTON'S REQUEST FOR RECONSIDERATION

NEW YORK, March 26.—Officials of the New York Yacht club declined to comment today on Sir Thomas Lipton's statement, issued at Belfast yesterday, explaining his request for a "reconsideration" of his challenge for the America's Cup, recently turned down. Nothing will be given out by the club until after a meeting has been held, possibly next Thursday.

In declining to accept Sir Thomas' challenge because he stipulated that the defending boat should not exceed 75 feet, water has the club held that this was contrary to the spirit of the deed of 1857.

Sir Thomas' view, as explained in last night's statement, is that the challenge might specify any length, for a single-sticker between 65 and 90 feet, and as no time allowance is permitted, this necessarily means that both boats be of the same dimensions.

Chick Gandil, first baseman of the Washington club, was obliged to leave the training camp at Charlottesville, Va., and go to the capital for medical treatment. He wrenched muscles in the small of his back and a cold set in and complicated it. Gandil is disappointed, as it throws him back in his training.

Thorpe Worst Player in My Camp McGraw

Can't Hit Curves and Misjudges Flies; Only an Advertisement

The correspondent of the New York World with the Giants at Martin, Tex., writes of Jim Thorpe as follows:

Jim Thorpe, the famous Indian athlete and now a member of the Giants, may make a great ball player some day, but not this year. After observing him daily for nearly a month, the writer has come to the conclusion that it is likely to take several years of the closest application and constant instruction before he can be made a star.

As he stands today, the redskin, who got a chance at professional baseball through his sensational disqualification as an amateur, is just a raw kind of recruit. He knows a lot of the game, but he is a poor player. He is as fast as lightning going down to first, but he is rather slow because he doesn't know how to effectively turn the corner. Moreover, he would get down to first even much faster than he does if he knew how to break away from the plate.

The Indian strikes the ball hard enough when he lands his bat on it, but he is unused to curve pitching and sometimes is badly fooled by this sort of twirling. He can hit either a high or low ball with equal facility.

Thorpe has aroused so much interest in the country over that Manager McGraw will undoubtedly use him in the line-up in the exhibition games on the way north, but when the regular season starts (he is not sent to the minors for further seasoning) he will be obliged to war in the bench. In speaking of Thorpe, Mr. McGraw says:

"There is one good thing about him—he knows little about the game, so he hasn't any bad habits to unlearn. He is different from some of the other recruits, because I can tell him how to do something and he will follow my advice quickly, while the other youngsters often have ideas of their own or habits which are hard to break. The reports of Thorpe's great hitting, as quoted in the newspapers, are making it tougher for him every day."

SULLIVAN ON LONG TRIP

NEW YORK, March 26.—James E. Sullivan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, called Monday for New Orleans on the first lap of a nationwide tour in the interests of track athletes. Mr. Sullivan's itinerary calls for a trip to Portland, Ore., and Seattle, including visits to Houston, Tex.; Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento.

One of the chief objects of the trip is to set the ball rolling for the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915, which will be regarded as a preliminary tryout for the Olympic games of 1916.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, March 26.—Bull leaders supported wheat so effectively today that the market made an advance of nearly a cent in the face of a number of naturally bearish conditions. The close was nervous at a net uplift of 1/8¢ to 1/4¢. Corn scored a net gain of 1/8¢ to 1/4¢. Oats, 1/8¢ to 1/4¢, and provisions, 1/8¢ to 1/4¢.

Chief reasons underlying bull activity in wheat seemed to be first, fears that heavy rains and floods in the Ohio valley would wash away a large part of the growing crop; and second, news of some good export sales of wheat at Duluth.

The market seemed to ignore the approaching close of the war in the Balkans as indicated in the fall of additional. The almost universally favorable foreign crop outlook failed also to stamp bull sentiment.

Local speculation took advantage of the general advance of wheat yesterday to drain the market today, and the effort was a stampede of buying. Light receipts helped the upward movement from short sales. Grain strength, however, was strong and active most of the day, but grew easier toward the close on realizing sales.

THERE'S NO TIME
LIKE THE PRESENT

This cold weather, the high winds, the driving snow, make Gutmann's Dry Climate Cream,
a positive necessity. Don't wait until your complexion is ruined and your skin chapped but get a bottle today. It is thoroughly efficient and perfectly harmless.

Delicious
Meats

"That roast was simply fine," said one of our customers the other day, "my guests said they never ate a more delicious piece of meat." There was just one reason for it and that was the superior quality of the meat she served.

And we gave her just what we'll give you if you'll buy your meat here. We have only one quality. Only one rule governs our buying, and that is to get the best.

Come in and get acquainted and give us a trial.

A Special Display of Wooltex
Tailored Suits and Coats

WE have just recently added to our popular price line of tailored suits and coats the famous Wooltex line. We are making a special display of these garments and would be glad to have you try them on. The models shown here are the same as featured and described in this week's issue of the "Saturday Evening Post." We are showing these identical models at the prices advertised. Note these original models from which the picture was made, now in our front show windows.

The four suits shown here come in a variety of materials and colors, and are unquestionably the best obtainable at $25. Others up to $55. The coat shown at $15 we believe has more style and service for the price than has ever been shown in Colorado Springs—the other two at $20 are particularly attractive at the price—other coats up to $40. We haven't neglected the other lines that we have carried for several seasons, some of which our patrons are quite familiar with, but are showing the Wooltex in addition, thus giving us the largest collection of garments we have ever shown.
